The Chaplain's Corner

If you are a cancer survivor, chances are you have experienced pain, either emotional, physical or spiritual.

Sometimes we question God--- "Is pain my punishment?" You've heard the expression "The rain falls on the just and the unjust" -- or better, the unjust and unjust, for we are all sinners. All of us are or will be victims of pain - it's simply a fact of our existence, regardless of how good or how bad we are. Life isn't fair? No, but there is one who justifies life and understands that pain.

When we face struggles, we often wonder, Why? Years from now, though, we may realize that it was those struggles that taught us something we could not have otherwise learned - that there was a purpose in our pain.

God's purpose is greater than your pain, and he has a greater purpose than your problems. Your crises are not going to slow down the purpose of God -- have confidence in that.

Jean Kalt, Chaplain

you can learn to ride the waves."

Note of appreciation

We would like to say that we thank each and everyone that was involved in decision making in helping us. It was greatly appreciated.

God Bless each and everyone!
